1. Overview of the IEUME Skills Assessment, Validation and Recognition Tools (Intellectual Output 4)

The aim of this Output is to develop a package of tools for trainers, educators and social workers which will allow them to assess, validate and recognise the skills gained by members of the target group in the IEUME gamified online training.

The IEUME training course aims at supporting the integration of persons with a migrant background (refugees, asylum seekers and migrants) and at carefully introducing them to the lifestyle, prerequisites, institutions and processes of the European Union and their host countries within the EU. They gain access to institutions which they can address for help and support and they receive a lot of diverse information which will make their integration easier.

In order to facilitate the delivery of the training course and, in particular, a subsequent assessment through trainers and educators, this Intellectual Output provides a mapping of suitable existing frameworks and European transparency mechanisms as well as several different tools which can be used by trainers to gain insights on a learner's progress and their knowledge gained in the IEUME training course.

The IEUME online gamified training course is available online at www.ieume.com/elearning

2. European transparency tools

This section describes several suitable transparency tools which can be used to make training and education more equal, transparent and easily comparable between different European countries. Achieving such transparency is highly important in today's global society as well as desirable and practical for the IEUME training course.

1.1 EQF

EQF European Qualification Framework	EQF is an important link between the many different qualification and educational systems in the countries of Europe. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Common European reference framework • 8 different reference levels (1 = lowest, 8= highest); classification is done according to the learning outcome of each level • Learning outcomes describe what people understand, know and are capable of doing after a specific learning input/unit • Includes qualifications at all different levels and systems of education, training and schooling • Overview and summary of qualifications in the participating countries • Makes qualifications comparable between different countries and systems Purpose: Making qualifications easier to understand in different European countries and their systems. Supporting lifelong learning and cross-border mobility between European countries. Beneficial for learners and workers all over Europe.
--------------------------------------------------------------	---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------

1.2 ECVET

ECVET European Credit System for Vocational Education and Training	ECVET facilitates recognition of skills for VET learners. The system allows validation of work-related knowledge and competences, which they have acquired in different countries and different systems. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Possible for VET qualifications at all levels of the European Qualification Framework • Framework makes learners more mobile within different systems of education • Allows easier transfer of qualifications • Includes all learning outcomes from formal, non-formal, informal contexts, acquired in the home country and abroad • Based on different units of learning outcomes that can be assessed and easily validated • Using technical specifications and principles, taking national legislation and regulations into account • Individualised learning habits and histories, also considering transnational mobility Purpose: Assisting VET learners in collecting their assessed learning outcomes, having them recognised and transfer them among different systems. This will result in a certain qualification or enable lifelong learning. ECVET goes hand in hand with other EU frameworks and reference systems: European qualifications framework (EQF), Europass and the European quality assurance reference framework for VET (EQARF).
--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------	------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------

1.3 EQAVET

EQAVET European Quality Assurance in Vocational Education and Training	EQAVET is a community of practice and a reference instrument founded on common reference conditions. It supports EU countries in promoting and monitoring the improvement of their systems of vocational education and training. The instrument brings together EU member countries, social partners and the European Commission in order design and advance quality assurance in systems of VET in the context of the European Quality Assurance Reference Framework. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Supporting and monitoring the implementation of EQARF • Emphasise on quality, mutual learning, development of common principles • Quality assurance for EQF and ECVET; arriving at mutual solutions and common results to establish guidelines and criteria • Discussions about experiences, exchange of information Purpose: Better cooperation and synergies within and across EU member states on issues and questions related to quality assurance. EQAVET wants to create a sustainable platform for quality assurance in vocational education and training.
------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------	----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------

1.4 Europass

Europass

Europass is an initiative by the EU to advance transparency of qualifications and facilitate mobility of European citizens. It wants to make competences and qualifications transparent and understandable across Europe. The Europass brand comprises five documents, available in 27 languages:

- CV: presenting qualifications and competences in a consistent way that is easy to understand
- Language Passport: self-assessment tool for language skills and qualifications
- Europass Mobility: a tool to document competences and knowledge gained in other European countries
- Certificate Supplement: description of knowledge and competences of people with VET certificates.
- Diploma Supplement: description of knowledge and competences of people with higher education degrees.

All these documents can be collected in the European Skills Passport. All countries have a National Europass Centre, which provides information and support.

Purpose: Europass wants to help EU citizens to present their qualifications and individual competences clearly and understandably in a common format. This will be very beneficial when they are looking for a job or training. It also helps employers and training/educational institutions to assess a candidate and their skills.

2. IEUME Training course: EQF and ECVET

Two European transparency tools, EQF and ECVET, were chosen as the main classification systems for the IEUME online training course. In addition to this, Europass (described in chapter 3.1.6) is highly recommended as a tool for the participants to use.

- European Qualifications Framework: EQF

There are eight different EQF levels which determine what learners should know and be able to do after completing a course or training. The levels are described in detail in the following table.

In the IEUME training course, EQF levels are assigned to each module (and eventually to the whole course), according to the difficulty of the course contents. As the course is intended for migrants and refugees who are lacking basic knowledge about their host countries and the European Union in general and because they frequently have a rather limited command of their respective host country's languages and of English, the EQF level assigned to the training course modules and to the course in general, are also rather low (levels 2 and 3 according to the modules, level 3 overall).

	Knowledge	Skills	Responsibility and autonomy
	In the context of EQF, knowledge is described as theoretical and/or factual.	In the context of EQF, skills are described as cognitive (involving the use of logical, intuitive and creative thinking) and practical (involving manual dexterity and the use of methods, materials, tools and instruments).	In the context of the EQF responsibility and autonomy is described as the ability of the learner to apply knowledge and skills autonomously and with responsibility
Level 2 The learning outcomes relevant to Level 2 are	Basic factual knowledge of a field of work or study	Basic cognitive and practical skills required to use relevant information in order to carry out tasks and to solve routine problems using simple rules and tools	Work or study under supervision with some autonomy
Level 3 The learning outcomes relevant to Level 3 are	Knowledge of facts, principles, processes and general concepts, in a field of work or study	A range of cognitive and practical skills required to accomplish tasks and solve problems by selecting and applying basic methods, tools, materials and information	Take responsibility for completion of tasks in work or study; adapt own behaviour to circumstances in solving problems

Fig. 1 – Levels 2 and 3 of the EQF

(adapted from <https://ec.europa.eu/ploteus/content/descriptors-page>)

- European Credit System for Vocational Education and Training: ECVET

In order to assign appropriate ECTS credit points, the training course was analysed module by module, including the training course's mini games, and the approximate possible and suggested duration for each module was estimated. In this process, the training course's target group and their probable limitation in language skills and other, fact-based prior knowledge was taken into account, resulting in an extra amount of time which was added to the calculation. This will make it easier for members of the target group to not only participate, but also complete the training course in the expected and recommended time.

The ECVET system measures its credit points according to the duration of course work and 1 ECVET credit point is seen to equal 25 to 30 hours of course work as the basis of calculation. Thanks to this flexibility, it is possible that the actual time a participant needs to complete the course can vary while all learners will still receive the same amount of ECVET credits.

2.1 EQF levels and ECVET credit points attribution

The IEUME online-gamified training course as a whole has a value of 4 ECVET credit points; the individual attribution of credit points to each module can be seen in the following section.

The course's overall EQF level is set at level 3, as the learning outcomes relevant to this level were deemed most appropriate for the IEUME training course. However, as the course consists of five modules which all focus on different topics, require different levels of prior knowledge and provide information and training with varying levels of difficulty, the individual models fall into either EQF level 2 or EQF level 3.

The following section provides more details on the attribution of EQF levels and the calculation of ECVET credit points.

3. Tools

This chapter introduces examples and ready-to-be used assessment and evaluation tools for trainers, educators, and social workers. These can be used in training sessions in order to collect and analyse information concerning the training as well as by individuals who have participated in the course. These tools of assessment, validation and recognition serve various purposes such as data and information collection, raising of further interest, review of skills, raising of self-esteem and reassurance of success.

3.1 General tools

The following tools are available as links or for download on the IEUME project website www.ieume.com. All tools serve a certain purpose and can be seen as best practice suggestions and valuable support measures for trainers and the course itself.

3.1.1 IEUME introduction video

The IEUME introduction video offers an overview of the IEUME project and, in particular, of the training course. Trainers can get a brief and quick introduction to the project and, while this video is more targeted at educators delivering the course, it can also be of interest for participants. A special focus is put on the IEUME online gamified training course.

Contents of the video:

- Project overview
- Target groups
- Aims and goals of the project
- Introduction to the IEUME Online gamified training course and its objectives, contents, learning outcomes, and features

3.1.2 Kahoot Quiz

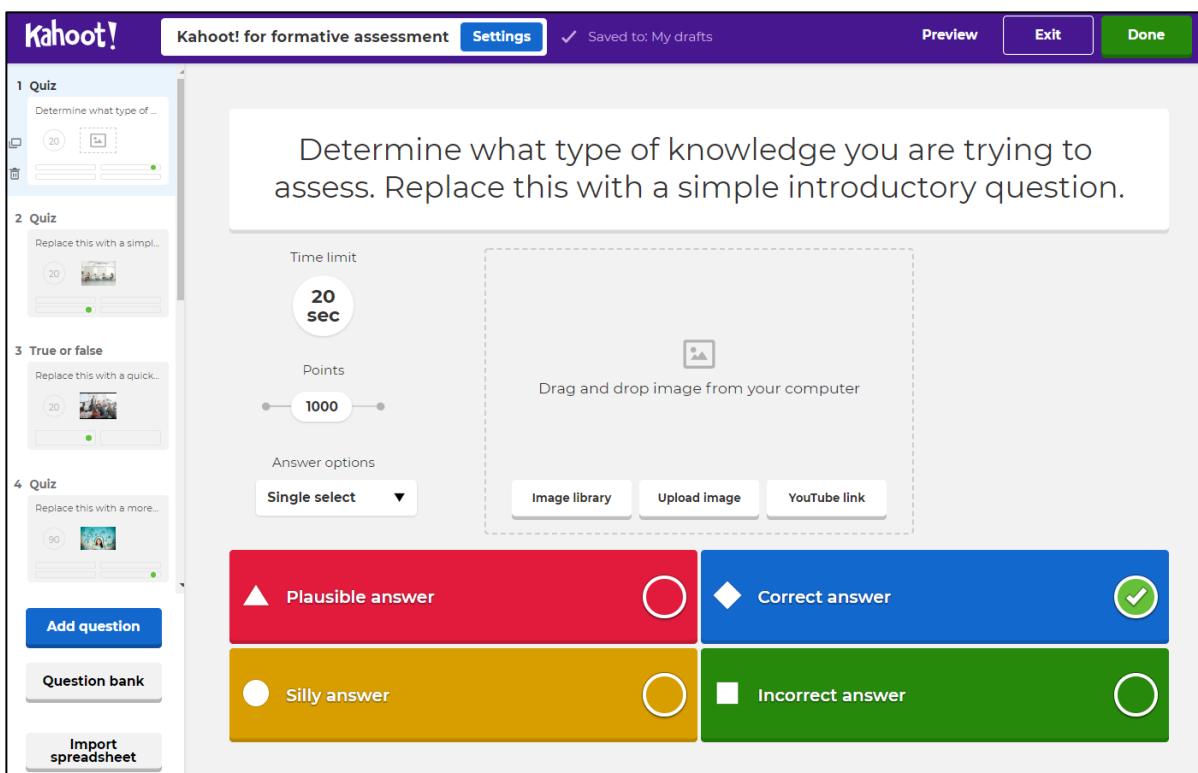

A Kahoot quiz consists of several multiple-choice questions on a certain topic. It is a gamified online tool which allows trainers to create their own quiz and use it with their learners. This ensures high adaptability to individual learners, groups of course participants, national situations, language skills and any possible impediments. As the learners' individual needs and skill levels can be taken into account, a Kahoot quiz is an ideal option for trainers who want to assess the knowledge their learners gained by participating in the IEUME training course.

The website www.kahoot.com is an easy to use platform where trainers can create their own quiz. In the case of the IEUME training course, educators can be creative and use Kahoot to create a quiz with questions on IEUME topics, which will challenge their learners to apply the knowledge they gained during the IEUME training course. As Kahoot is highly individual, trainers can adapt the quiz to their own needs.

How to use Kahoot:

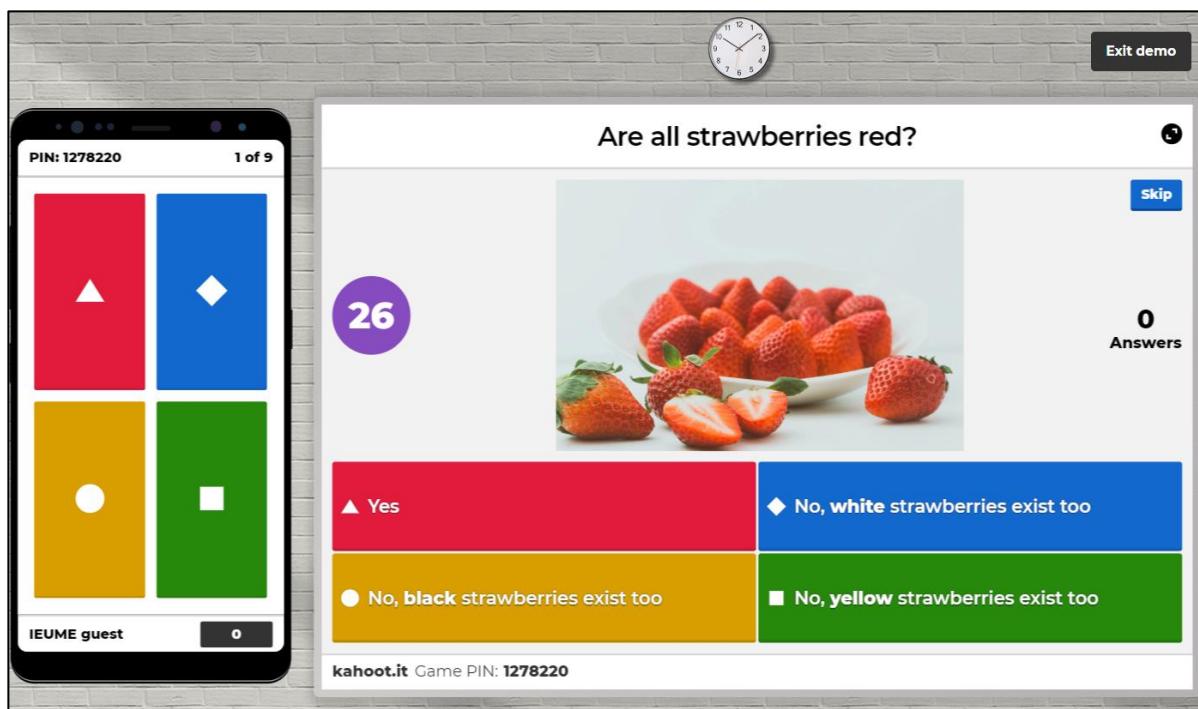

- 1) Sign up as a teacher / create an account or sign up with a Google or Facebook account.
- 2) The Basic version is free to use; the Pro edition is a paid version and offers some additional features.
- 3) There are free tutorial videos and a demo game available within the platform which show how to build a Kahoot quiz.
- 4) Create your own Kahoot quiz by typing questions and possible answers in the respective fields.

On the website, there are many ideas and suggestions on how to design the Kahoot questions and the matching answers. The aim is to create a quiz that make sense for the target group, is entertaining and informative and provides a valuable experience.

The screenshot shows the Kahoot! platform interface for creating a quiz. On the left, there's a sidebar with four sections: 1 Quiz (with a placeholder for determining knowledge type), 2 Quiz (with a placeholder for a simple question), 3 True or false (with a placeholder for a quick question), and 4 Quiz (with a placeholder for a more complex question). Below these are buttons for "Add question", "Question bank", and "Import spreadsheet". The main area is titled "Determine what type of knowledge you are trying to assess. Replace this with a simple introductory question." It includes settings for "Time limit" (set to 20 sec), "Points" (set to 1000), and "Answer options" (set to "Single select"). There's a placeholder for an image with the text "Drag and drop image from your computer" and buttons for "Image library", "Upload image", and "YouTube link". Below this are four answer options: "Plausible answer" (red background, triangle icon), "Correct answer" (blue background, diamond icon with checkmark), "Silly answer" (yellow background, circle icon), and "Incorrect answer" (green background, square icon).

Fig. 4 – Possible options of creating a quiz on the Kahoot platform (from www.kahoot.com)

The screenshot shows a demo Kahoot quiz titled "Are all strawberries red?". On the left, a smartphone displays a 2x2 grid of colored squares (red, blue, yellow, green) with icons (triangle, diamond, circle, square) corresponding to the four answer options. The text "IEUME guest" and "0" are visible at the bottom. On the right, the desktop version of the quiz is shown. It features a clock icon at the top right. The question "Are all strawberries red?" is displayed above a large number "26". Below the question is a photograph of strawberries. To the right, it says "0 Answers". The answer options are arranged in a 2x2 grid: "Yes" (red, triangle), "No, white strawberries exist too" (blue, diamond), "No, black strawberries exist too" (yellow, circle), and "No, yellow strawberries exist too" (green, square). A "skip" button is at the top right, and the Kahoot PIN "1278220" is at the bottom.

3.1.3 Answer garden

Answer Garden is a free online tool that does not require any registration or membership. It is very easy to use and provides a simple tool for learners to express their thoughts, ideas and opinions. This is an ideal way for educators working with the IEUME training course to collect quantitative data and feedback about the training course. Learners will find this tool easy to use, as a single word is already a suitable – and in fact desired – answer. In addition to this, the feedback is completely anonymous, all answers are welcome, and every statement can be taken into account.

As it is a simple online tool, accessible at www.answergarden.ch, any interested trainer – and learner – can use this tool. Trainers can adapt their questions to their needs, they can ask questions in their own languages and they can tailor them to their learners' skills and levels of competence.

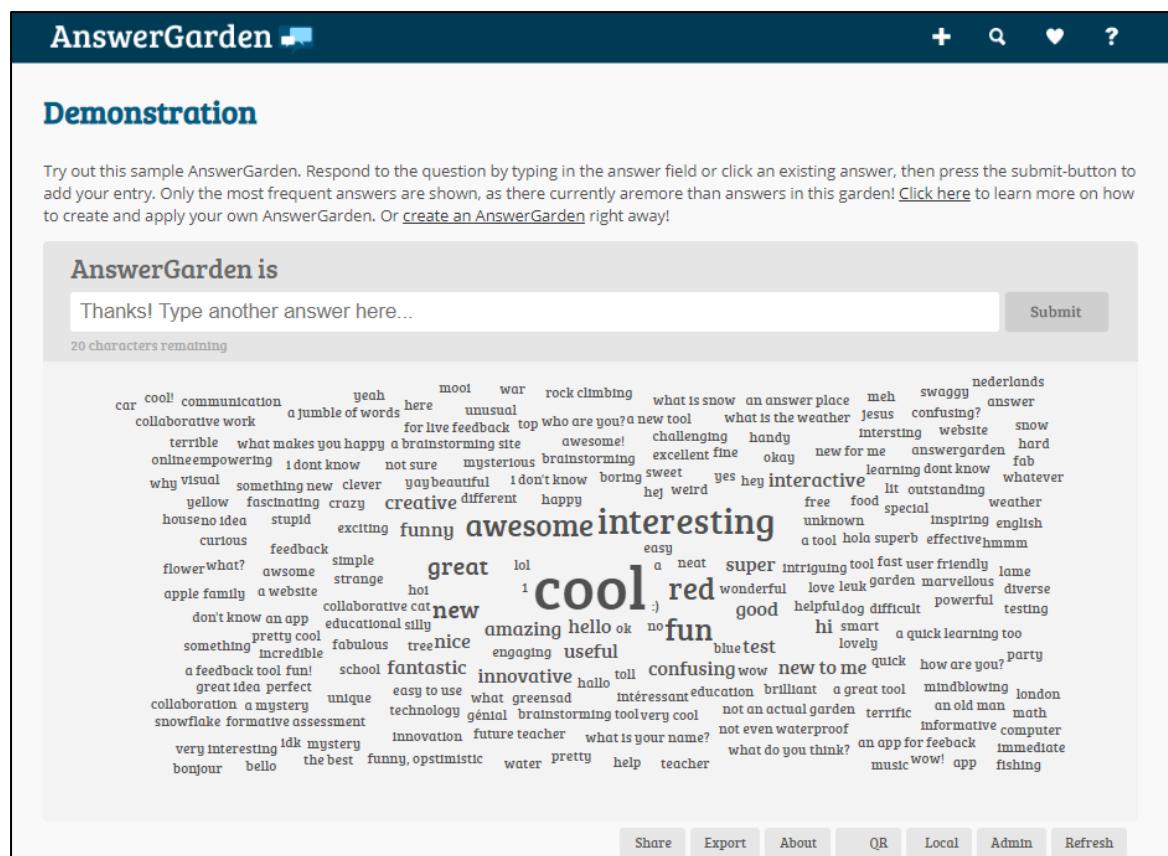

The screenshot shows the 'Create a new AnswerGarden' page. On the left, there's a 'Topic (required)' section with a text input field containing 'Enter your question or topic here...'. Below it is a 'More options (optional)' section with tabs for 'Brainstorm', 'Classroom' (which is selected), 'Moderator', and 'Locked'. A note says: 'In Classroom Mode respondents can submit an unlimited number of answers, but may only submit each answer once.' On the right, there's a 'Tips' section with instructions and a 'Tip us' section with a PayPal donation button. At the bottom is a large blue 'START' button.

How to use Answer Garden:

- 1) Go to the website
- 2) Type your own Answer Garden question into the respective field
- 3) Adapt the settings to your own needs
- 4) Create and use the Answer Garden question with your students

3.1.4 Emoji Flashcards

Emoji Flashcards can be used if the training is conducted as a blended or face-to-face training with a trainer present. The trainer can use the flashcards produced by IEUME and provided on the website or can create their own set of cards to give to the learners, tailored to specific aspects of the training.

How to use Emoji Flashcards:

At the end of a lesson, the trainees will be provided with a number of flashcards which they can use to express their satisfaction, learning progress, desires etc. simply by showing the respective cards. The cards can also be used as a low-level way of answering additional questions the trainer wants to ask.

IEUME provides the following Emoji Flashcard sets ideas:

- Emotions: "How much have you learned in the IEUME training course?" (ANNEX 1)
- Country flags: <https://study.com/academy/flashcards/europe-flags-list-flashcards.html>

3.1.6 Self-evaluation forms for learners (ANNEXES 2 and 3)

Self-evaluation is a valuable tool for participants to see how much they have learned in the IEUME online training course. By exploring their own learning achievements and evaluating their skills and knowledge, learners can appreciate and understand their own progress and will be able to reflect critically on any additional work they could do to learn even more.

Being able to analyse their learning success in this particular way will boost their self-esteem and increase their eagerness to learn more as they can identify if their personal goals have been reached or not. It also gives them a good overview about what they already know, they still have to learn, what they have to work on more intensively and what they would need more help with.

The IEUME self-evaluation forms are featured online and can be downloaded from the website.

There are two parts of this self-evaluation tool:

- Course overview – ANNEX 2

This first part of the IEUME self-evaluation for learners is a general overview of the course. Learners can tick off the points they feel comfortable in and they feel like they have already achieved. The evaluation is divided into three parts: "Personal growth", "Course participation", and "In the future..."

- How much do I already know? – ANNEX 3

The second part of the self-evaluation lets learners go through the IEUME training course's learning outcomes. All learning outcomes are listed according to the units in which they can be achieved. This is a step-by-step process in which learners will be able to see clearly who much they have learned and how many new things they are able to do after completing the IEUME training course. As all modules can be taking individually, there is one questionnaire for each unit to ensure maximum flexibility.

3.1.5 Checklist for trainers – ANNEX 4

This checklist is available online for download and for individual use by trainers and other educators. It states and summarises necessary aspects that trainers have to follow and that they should be aware of when they work with the IEUME online gamified training course. By completing this checklist and fulfilling all the points asked in it, trainers will become more aware of their tasks and responsibilities in accompanying the course.

This checklist can be seen not only as a list of necessary prerequisites to have in order to successfully deliver the training course, but also as a self-assessment tool which trainers can use to evaluate their skills in delivering an online training course to learners in a face-to-face setting. The information gathered and reflected upon through this checklist for trainers can be used to help improving and refining teaching methods as well as to raise awareness among trainers of what they are already doing successfully and which aspects could still be improved in regard to their performance and knowledge.

3.1.6 Europass

The Europass CV online editor is a very useful tool which facilitates the creation of a standardised, modern Curriculum Vitae. The editor is easy to use and can be extremely helpful for training course participants. By following the simple steps towards creating a CV, third country nationals will receive a curriculum vitae which meets European standards and expectations. Not only can this be useful for those participants who are able to work in the European Union, but it is also a good tool to prepare all participants for their future just search, even if they are not allowed to work at the moment. Additionally, by listing all their skills, competences, education and other details, training course participants will receive a good idea of how much they already know.

The creation of a Europass CV is also an important supplement to Module 2 of the IEUME training course (Improving Employability).

3.2 IEUME training course module-specific tools

In order to provide also a possibility to assess what participants are taking away from the IEUME training course, five individual questionnaires are provided with questions from the training course. This is a good opportunity to see a learner's success.

3.2.1 Module questionnaires – ANNEX 5a and ANNEX5b

All module questionnaires are available in English and in all partner languages (annex 5a) to ensure a wide reach and to make it easier for learners to answer these questions. Solution sheets (Annex 5b) are provided to assist trainers and learners.

Għaddew kważi erbgħin sena, bejn it-Trattat ta' Ruma u t-Trattat ta' Maastricht, biex il-kultura tkun ikkunsidrata bħala dimensjoni essenzjali tal-identità Ewropea.
